CHRISTINE ROSE GALLERY:

"Strange Ritual," photographs by former Talking Head David Byrne are on view along with a video installation of artists Nora Ligorano and Marshall Reese through Nov. 22. Since Byrne's art school days at Rhode Island School of Design, he has been taking pictures as a side line to his music. This show presents pictures of objects which Byrne holds sacred for one reason or another; these subjects include religious artifacts, hotel and airport room details, books, and furniture. Conceptual artist Marcel Duchamp felt that ordinary objects can be art if they are presented as art; and David Byrne seems to agree. 395 West Broadway, (212) 431-1862. — Amy Kean CHAIRS: Talking Heads alumnus David Byrne has an exhibition of his photographs at the Christine Rose Gallery. See MuseumPick for details.
